[REDACTED]. As the Police Commissioner you confirmed that the Human Resources Director should be the person to review the investigation and provide findings to you.

II. Background

The allegations arose out of a hunting accident that occurred in the Pueblo Mountains area in Eastern Oregon on April 21, 2016. O'Dea was camping with a group of friends and on that date they were shooting at ground squirrels and cans. One member of the party, [REDACTED], was accidentally shot. At that time, it was not clear how the accidental shooting had occurred. O'Dea administered first aid to [REDACTED] and because they did not have cell phone service at their location, they transported [REDACTED] to Fields Station. They were able to pick up a cellular signal along the way and called for aid. First responders met the party at Fields Station, where [REDACTED] was taken by life flight to a hospital in Boise, Idaho. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]. According to [REDACTED], he called O'Dea within a few days of the incident ([REDACTED] believed this conversation occurred on the Monday following the incident (April 25), and O'Dea acknowledged he was responsible for shooting [REDACTED]. On the following Wednesday (April 27), according to [REDACTED], O'Dea called [REDACTED] back and apologized for the shooting.

III. Investigation Summary

Chief O'Dea's Meeting with the Assistant Chiefs

On April 25, 2016, the Monday after the shooting, O'Dea informed his Assistant Chiefs he had shot his friend. This occurred during their regular weekly meeting. ACs Crebs, Henderson, Day and Modica were all present. Each assistant chief had a slightly different recollection of what O'Dea told them.

According to AC Crebs, O'Dea said he shot his friend and Crebs assumed based on the conversation [REDACTED] knew O'Dea was the shooter. During Crebs' second interview he expressed surprise that the deputy had not known O'Dea was the shooter. O'Dea said he was going to contact Professional Standards and that he had already spoken to the mayor. Crebs did not recall O'Dea telling the ACs to do anything, including to keep the information confidential, but Crebs stated he would have done that in any event.

AC Henderson stated O'Dea advised them he shot his friend, that he had contacted the mayor and Derik Rodrigues (Professional Standards Captain). [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]. Henderson's assumption was O'Dea was the subject of an investigation [REDACTED]. O'Dea asked the ACs to keep the incident to themselves.

AC Day reported that O'Dea said he may have been responsible for the shooting after reflecting on the incident over the weekend. O'Dea said he had talked with the Mayor and was in touch with Professional Standards. Day also stated O'Dea said he did not want the conversation to be discussed outside of the room (where they were meeting). Day interpreted that as "keep this confidential". Day also noted that the assistant chiefs had a responsibility to act if they thought the chief had engaged in wrongdoing but Day believed the chief and Rodrigues were taking the appropriate steps.

AC Modica stated O'Dea said he had informed the mayor and made other notifications as necessary. O'Dea was "pretty specific" that he did not want the incident to be discussed outside of the room. Modica felt like that was an order from the chief. Modica assumed O'Dea had spoken to [REDACTED]

Derik Rodrigues

During their regular business meeting on April 25, O'Dea advised Rodrigues that O'Dea had shot his friend while on vacation. [REDACTED]

Larry O'Dea

O'Dea advised the ACs during their regular meeting on April 25 of the shooting incident. O'Dea said he originally thought his friend had shot himself but it turned out that O'Dea had shot him. O'Dea said he also told the ACs the investigation was ongoing so they needed to keep the information secure [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] O'Dea also notified the Mayor, by telephone, and Derik Rodrigues, during their regular meeting, of the shooting incident. Mayor Hales stated [REDACTED] and Hales assumed, [REDACTED], that an internal investigation would begin as well. Diane Haman, who was O'Dea's Executive Assistant, said that O'Dea told her and Lt Kruger the morning of April 25 of the incident. In that meeting O'Dea said he had notified the mayor and Captain Rodrigues. Ms. Haman stated that O'Dea asked that the information "stay between us" as there would be an investigation. She assumed [REDACTED] that some type of investigation would occur. IPR contacted Lt. Kruger for an interview but he declined since Lt. Kruger had retired from the Bureau at the time of the request.

May 20, 2016

The incident [REDACTED] became public on May 20. Pete Simpson, who is the Public Information Officer for the Portland Police Bureau, received a phone call from Nigel Jaquiss, Willamette Week, who advised Simpson O'Dea or one of the ACs had been hunting and shot someone and could he comment. This was the first time that Simpson was aware of the incident. Simpson asked O'Dea if he knew anything about a hunting accident. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Simpson send out a press release to that effect and in response to the media's question of why there had been no prior public statement, stated "The chief notified the mayor, Professional Standards and some senior staff but otherwise chose to keep matter private as it was an off-duty incident while on vacation." [REDACTED]

IV. Findings

Allegation #1

It is difficult to determine whether O’Dea brought discredit upon the City and the Police Bureau solely by causing a negligent discharge of a firearm while off-duty that resulted in injury. The incident was largely kept secret until May 20. However, the fact there was no public statement about the off-duty incident until Willamette Week published the story did bring discredit to the City and to PPB. Public concern there was a cover-up is evident from Mayor Hales’ interviews with Straight Talk and Think Out Loud. Exacerbating this is the fact that, according to Simpson, O’Dea had insisted that information about the arrest of an officer for driving under the influence (that occurred on April 25, 2016) be made public. Simpson acknowledged the officer’s conduct was more serious but expressed concern about a double standard.

Because O’Dea’s actions, by causing the accidental shooting, set in motion the entire series of events and because he was at least partially part responsible for the fact the incident was not made public, he did bring discredit to the City and to PPB. This allegation is sustained.

Allegation #2

[REDACTED]. Based on the information O’Dea provided to his ACs, to Diane Haman and to the Mayor about the shooting they all assumed [REDACTED] was investigating the incident. The ACs generally were under the impression there was an investigation and [REDACTED]. Diane Haman assumed “some type of investigation” would occur. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Allegation #2 is sustained.

Allegation #3

O’Dea did not improperly direct or suggest that the Assistant Chiefs not discuss the off duty negligent shooting outside the chief’s office. O’Dea did ask that the ACs not discuss the incident; some felt it was a directive, some felt it was a request to keep the information confidential. AC Day noted that since O’Dea told them he had notified the mayor and Professional Standards, the ACs did not have a duty to report as that had been done by O’Dea. Given that the ACs also assumed there was an investigation [REDACTED], asking them to keep the information confidential was not improper. Again, however, O’Dea allowed certain assumptions to be made, [REDACTED] into the shooting without being explicit about what was actually going to happen. This allegation is not sustained but only because of what appears to be a general lack of forthrightness on the part of O’Dea, it is difficult to determine if O’Dea’s actions were a deliberate attempt to keep the incident as quiet as possible.

Allegation #4

O'Dea failed to respond fully and truthfully during his May 24 2016 interview with IPR. O'Dea stated he told the ACs to "keep the information [about the fact that O'Dea shot his friend] secure" [REDACTED] [REDACTED] O'Dea stated the discussion with the ACs was around not needing a wholesale notification right now [REDACTED] None of the ACs corroborate this version of what O'Dea advised them; they all recalled a more general discussion. O'Dea also stated that he notified his boss (the mayor) and the four ACs [REDACTED] [REDACTED] the moment he knew he was the one who shot his friend. This was not truthful because, as noted above, at the time O'Dea had his conversations with the mayor and the ACs, [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Allegation #4 is sustained.

Conclusion

The overall impression from the investigation is that O'Dea allowed certain assumptions to be made but that he took no action to ensure that important and critical information was shared. For example, [REDACTED] [REDACTED] O'Dea did not contact IPR himself [REDACTED] [REDACTED]. O'Dea allowed the mayor to also assume [REDACTED] [REDACTED] investigations were ongoing but again O'Dea took no responsibility to ensure this was the case. [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Last, as expressed by Pete Simpson, O'Dea's insistence the public be informed of an officer's off-duty alleged criminal conduct, while ensuring [REDACTED] [REDACTED] be kept confidential is also problematic and created the impression the chief believed his behavior was governed by a different set of standards.
